Are you ready for the Great Resignation?

You've likely heard by now of the "Great Resignation of 2021" and the impact it is having on our already tight talent market. Spokane is no different and our local employment market continues to evolve. Our industry is continuing to see a very candidate-driven market and based on Volt's research and what they're hearing from clients, that won't be changing any time soon. Folks are flying off the shelf and seem to not only have multiple interviews with various organizations but also multiple offers to consider. Come learn more about the Great Resignation and speak with two recruitment managers about future opportunities.

Statistics supporting the discussion:

- Microsoft Research finds that 41% of the global workforce is weighing leaving their current employer this year
- Monster reports as many as 95% of workers are currently considering changing jobs.
- The Labor Department recently reported 9.3 million job openings and there are hiring signs everywhere you look.
